

Is there homophobia in the Baha'i community?

Contributed by Sonja van Kerkhoff, Just A Bahai Blog
Saturday, 31 July 2010

Is there homophobia in the Baha'i community? In April this year Korey started a discussion on a Bahai Facebook group called "homophobia". This is what he posted:

First Lessons in Relativity - an installation by Sonja van Kerkhoff

If you are gay or not, you should forward this as a support of your friends and loved ones that are. Love is not defined by color, belief, or gender.

I am the mother that is not allowed to see the children she gave birth to, took care of and raised. The courts say that I do not fulfill the requirements to be a mother now that I live with another woman.

Full story...